BIOGRAPHY

Ang Leng Hong is a Senior Lecturer at the School of Humanities, Universiti Sains Malaysia. She teaches undergraduate courses, and also supervises undergraduates and postgraduates in language and linguistic studies. Her main research interests include corpus linguistics and phraseology studies, with a particular focus on their applications in academic and learner writing. In addition to her core research areas, she holds a keen interest in the corpus-based study of Malaysian English, exploring the characteristics and evolution of English within the Malaysian context.
